ECCN is not given. The exporter is Hittite Microwave Corporation, 20 Alpha Road, Chelmsford, MA 01824.

¶3. On January 28, 2009, Export Control Attach Peter Liston and LES Yuriy Prikhodko conducted the requested post-shipment verification with Lekis, 8 Lepse Av, Kiev, Ukraine. The export control team met with Boris Cherniy, General Director, at the office of the Foreign Commercial Service, Kiev, Ukraine.

¶4. Boris Cherniy, General Director of Lekis advised the export control team that Lekis was founded in 1999 as a high tech company involved in microwave technology. Lekis has 10 full time employees on the payroll and hires additional contract engineers depending on contract work. Cherniy stated that Lekis is a privately held company with offices located within the Laboratory of Electronic Components and Subsystems, a large research center that is part of the Ukraine defense sector.

¶5. Cherniy stated that Lekis places microwave technology in subsystems to include transmitters, diode generators, synchronized frequency generators, amplifiers and broadband for mobile technology. Cherniy stated that Lekis has received government contracts and has produced components for the Ministry of Transportation that measures speed and friction for the locomotive industry. Lekis has also been contracted by the National Space Agency to better convert data received from satellite transmissions.

¶6. Lekis appears to have the technological and commercial sophistication required for use of the reftel commodity. They also have a legitimate need and a legitimate end use of subject commodity.

¶7. The export control team was unable to visit the office location of Lekis because of its location within a secure government facility with restricted access.

¶8. Recommendations: Post recommends Lekis, Kiev, Ukraine as reliable recipients of sensitive U.S. origin commodities.
